Working Together: Parliamentary, Cabinet, Caucus, and/or Representative Collaboration Across the Levels in Canada

When and in what ways do elected representatives cooperate across intergovernmental levels in Canada? Only in times of emergencies, such as floods or economic recessions? When governments or opposition parties are of the same stripe? Or are there numerous instances in which Canadians can count on intergovernmental collaboration between and among their elected representatives in order to advance public policy goals? This seminar will delve into the concept of cooperation and collaboration across legislatures in Canada to get a sense of how our parliaments foster or repel strong working relationships with their counterparts at the federal, provincial and territorial level.

Please note that this seminar may qualify for the purpose of the mandatory continuing education (3 hours) with the Quebec Bar Association. Should you have questions concerning admissibility criteria, please consult the Quebec Bar Association directly. The hours from the seminar may also be applied towards the Substantive Hours of Continuing Professional Development (CPD) of the Law Society of Ontario but will not be accredited for Professionalism Hours.
